

SCOTLAND ON SCREEN

1. EDINBURGH

Scotland's landscapes have played a leading role in many films and television series. Our cinematic journey begins in Edinburgh where we visit Rosslyn Chapel from the Da Vinci Code and The Wicker Man's Culzean Castle. Further afield in St. Andrews is the famous site of Chariots of Fire, while Pitlochry is the setting for the Outlander series.

2. FORT WILLIAM

The rugged countryside and foreboding castle backdrops of our next stop make for jaw-dropping scenes. As the setting for Braveheart, Highlander and Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire, this area is the place where many of the world's favorite stories have been brought to life.

3. ISLE OF SKYE

With jagged ridges and sweeping glens, precarious peaks and endless horizons, the camera is in love with the Isle of Skye. If you haven't visited in person, chances are you've seen it on screen in films like Macbeth, The BFG and Maid of Honor.

4. CULROSS

Our final setting is The Royal Burgh of Culross, a charming village where the Outlander shows are born. Wander the streets that time forgot or discover the dark secrets of the witches' prison before exploring the show's imposing castle setting.
